No Famine In Beef.

The Kansas City Journal takes as a text for an editorial the statements of one of the big beef packers that the country is facing a beef famine and that the time will come when steaks will bring a dollar a pound.

The Kansas City editor points out, as have the Union and other papers in the west, that the breaking up of great cattle ranges has brought about an entire new condition in the cattle industry. Heretofore the small farmer could not grow cattle because he was forced to compete with the range stock. But now conditions have been altered by the elimination of the range stock. The Journal says:

"Now that that situation has come about thousands of farmers in the west will raise beef and thus the shortage will automatically adjust itself. It is nonsense to talk about beef going to a dollar a pound. Does any sane man imagine that the farmers of America will refrain from raising cattle at a profit of a hundred or half a hundred dollars a head?"

The Missouri man has found the meat in the coconut. It is, after all, a question of money. If the farmer can make a good profit by growing live stock he will grow stock.

With the limitless resources of the farms of the great western country we shall not starve for a while. Neither shall we pay a dollar a pound for steaks.

The farmers with their alfalfa patches can grow more head of stock on ten acres than were grown on a hundred in the days of the range. When the American farmer makes up his mind that the time has come for him to make money by raising cattle the spectre of a beef famine will be banished.

Huerta Now a Dictator

While not in any sense an admirer of Huerta, we must admit that he has a very taking way with him. He seems to take everything in sight. Huerta's idea of government apparently resembles that of Henry the Eighth as seen by Huck Finn in Mark Twain's famous classic. It seems to be a case of "off with his head" if opposition arises.

In his latest exhibition of arbitrary power the so-called provisional president of Mexico has ended the session of congress and thrown something more than a hundred of the members into prison.

This method of dealing with the opposition has its advantages—for the president. For the other side, just at present, the advantages are conspicuously absent. Possibly the time will come when the lawmakers will have an evening. That is one of the favorite features of the Central American revolutions; both sides usually have a chance.

It will be interesting to see what the Los Angeles Times and a few other papers which were strong for the recognition of the Huerta government will say about the latest performance of the dictator.

Huerta seems to have no conception of law and an orderly method of doing things. He began his rule with bloody hands and his entire course since has been marked by crimson streams. This latest exploit is only what we should have expected.

President Wilson is to be congratulated that he entered into no compact with the dictator whose only title to the place he holds is written in blood.

Senator Clark Coming

Senator Clark of Montana is coming to Tonopah for the purpose of getting acquainted with the people and business chances of this camp. He will be here some time next week and the citizens of this camp should do something for him to let him know what is going on here and what opportunities await capital in broadening the production of the district.

Senator Clark is one of the most progressive spirits of the west and wherever he has gone he has brought others to look upon his investments from the same optimistic standpoint. He was one of the first to recognize the greatness of southern Nevada by building a railroad into the center of the mineral belt with his own money, not raising a dollar by the issue of bonds or other means of evading a liability which he considers gilt-edged. Through Senator Kearns, one of his close associates, he has learned something of the possibilities of this camp, and he should be encouraged to come here and meet the people and learn directly from them the latent resources of Nye county in general and Tonopah in particular.

Tonopah, unfortunately, is without a chamber of commerce or other central business organization that can take up such matters, and it behoves the business men of the camp to get together and arrange a reception or public meeting for the senator when he arrives.

Colonists are pouring through Nevada bound for California, but we do not hear of any of them taking up homesteads in Nyeada. The explanation is that every county and town in California spends thousands monthly for advertising.

Judge's sentence. Collier's concluded a large article on advertising the vice courts and how corrupt around and round everybody and everything revolved with the ruling. No self-respecting person should tolerate the paper in their household.

Alpine country, California, seems to be a happy paradise. The people clamored for a newspaper, and when they got it supported it for three weeks and then refused to put up any more.

COLONISTS GO THROUGH TO CALIFORNIA

NEVADA'S NEGLECTED OPPORTUNITY SHOWN BY THE RUSH OF TRAVEL

Officials of the Southern Pacific Railroad company at Reno say that the number of colonists passing through from the east to points in California outnumber those of previous years by almost two to one.

During Sunday the six regular trains of the company carried a total of 3000 passengers going to locate on the coast. The class of people being transported by the railroad under the new colonist rates is said to be far higher than those of previous years. Many of them have already purchased land in California.

Yesterday trains Nos 3 and 5 were forced to run two sections from Ogden, and it is expected that several trains today will run two sections, as approximately the same number of passengers are expected over the road.

Most of the trains passing through Reno are made up of from 12 to 24 cars, carrying an average of 75 passengers to a car. The Southern Pacific company is well pleased with the number of colonists who have taken advantage of the low rate and has already made provision to adopt the same rates for next year.

POOR SCORES MADE AT THE DRILLING CONTEST

The Fallon team won the Carson City drilling contest and drilled through about six more inches of rock than did the Rochester team. Both teams are good drillers, but the Fallon team had the advantage on account of weight and strength. The score was:

Fallon-Ross and Sanders 42%

Rochester-Flynn and Kirk 36%

The Rochester boys are good drillers and, although they were quicker and struck often, they did not have the power behind the hammer.

SUDDEN DEATH OF A RENO MERCHANT

C. Jeff Brooks, pioneer merchant of Reno, dropped dead at 6 o'clock Sunday morning while dressing for breakfast. Sunday was his seventy-third birthday anniversary and he had been in business here for 42 years. His wife, Mrs. Carrie Brooks, was with him when he fell unconscious and was seriously affected by the shock.
